Make a Holy Moment

Riley and Jamie have been helpful in the kitchen, working with Hal for the Knights of Columbus meeting dinner and cooking meals at the rectory for themselves and Fr. Joe. The rectory food bill has gone up significantly these past few weeks. It reminds Fr. Joe of the times he was cooking for his twin sons Nathan and Nicholas. Young men need a lot of healthy food to help the grow.

Jamie volunteered to sand and stain Fr. Joe's Mom's old kitchen table and chairs. It almost looks new. We will be able to use it in the classroom and possibly other places when we want something a little classier than the regular tables.

We received 5 big boxes in the mail and the people at the Post Office were a little concerned for how to get them delivered. They didn't want to have another heart attack and they didn't want Fr. Joe to have one either, so they called on Mike Johns. Luckily the seminarians were around to lend a hand and a vehicle to haul them to the Tiny Town Day Care. We are setting up a Baby Boutique where families that may be struggling can come get free diapers, wipes and small children clothing. Stay tuned for more information.

In case you didn't believe Dave Meier's fish stories, he had photographic proof of his exploits. We are sad to see his smiling face go, but we trust that he is in God's hands now and well taken care of. We will be saying farewell to Elsie Phillips and Joe Rainville this coming week on Tuesday and Thursday. We need to cherish the time we have with our loved ones while they are here with us and remember the loving lives that they led.

Unfortunately the weather hasn't cooperated very well for us to plan an outdoor potluck picnic. Riley and Jamie will be here until July 2nd, so we only have 1 full week left to get something planned, so be watching for Flock Note messages in case we put something together.
